

Hey, Angry People...

I've never before purchased anything from Angry Audio ... and now that I have, I couldn't be more impressed. Seriously!

I was looking for a solution to some audio protection issues I was having. Being the guy at a one person radio station, anything that would save some of the off-hour runs to the station would be worth its weight in gold....but the other issue is absolutely no budget other than what I throw into the pot.

Scanning BSW's catalog, the Failsafe Gadget caught my eye. The description was exactly what I was looking for and the price was quite attractive.

As I mentioned, I had never purchased anything from Angry Audio ... but have noticed that the company is getting some nice write-ups in some of the trades.

So, what the heck...lets try.

The package arrived very quickly after I placed the order (impressive) and the first thing I noticed was how well it was packed.

And damn, that packing tape was not going to open up by accident. As a matter of fact, even with my trusty penknife, it still created a battle. Nice!

Inside was yet another box, although much easier to open. Good protection.

Inside the second box was an extremely well designed packing support system. Impressive.

Gleefully taking the Gadget out of the box (nicely wrapped in a pink plastic bag to prevent any errant moisture that might show up during transit). The unit itself is quite impressive. Handsome to look at and extremely solid. Not a cheap item. Felt really quality.

Looking at it, I had a few questions, but was a bit concerned that there was no instruction book. Oops, then I saw the little thank you note with the advice to go online for information.

Did that and the fact that it answered any questions I had is in second place to the pure entertainment of reading the posting. I don't know who designed the instruction post, but they really need a raise. It was truly creative. Did what it was supposed to do... but made it fun to learn about the Failsafe Gadget.

Oh, and the Gadget itself is genius. Easy to install and simple to operate. And it works perfectly.

Good job, Angry Audio.

As I said, this is my first experience with your equipment ... but I assure you that it won't be my last.

Best regards,
